

That Rebus. Mr. Granville Thompson announces that none of the competitors for the Rebus prizes offered by him gave an accurate rendering of the puzzle, and the public may have an opportunity to try again. Miss Carry Allen was the first one to hand in a solution nearest to a correct answer.

High School Re-union.
Tickets for the Re-union of the Weymouth High School may be obtained of Miss Annie Lane, Washington street, Lansing. The Re-union occurs the 17th. Hon. John D. Long is expected to be present on the occasion.

Wednesday evening of last week was the scene of a brilliant occasion, it being the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Between sixty and seventy of their friends, most of them being very near neighbors were present, and the affair was a surprise to the host and hostess.

ing from the large number of participants the worthy recipient undoubtedly realized a substantial assistance. Early in the evening coaches began to arrive from all parts of the town, and at six o'clock the hall was well filled. The music was furnished by Dunbar's Band of Boston.

REWARD TO ENTERPRISE.
Five years ago James Pyle, of New York, first introduced his celebrated Pearlina to the public, and now the name of Pearlina is everywhere a household word, and millions upon millions of packages are annually consumed by our intelligent housekeepers.

The "Roman Hair Life," which is sold at wholesale and retail by F. V. Gay, apothecary, is one of the "slickest" things for the hair now on the market, removing dandruff and laying all itching of the scalp and keeping the hair soft and moist.

POSTER. Correspondence.

From Lynn, Oct. 9, 1888.

Coming up to Dorset last Saturday evening, and entering a horse-car, we had just secured comfortable corner seats, when a young lady of about twenty years of age, dressed in very common clothing, and carrying a large valise, or extension-bag, on each side of her head, entered the car, and sat down in the seat next to me. She was wearing a label. Two or three had no bag, but had instead a box or bundle; one little thing grasped tightly in her arms a huge pasteboard box, which, though tied by stout cords, was literally dripping with perspiration. This was only because she held it so close that we were not enlightened as to the contents. The girls were somewhat boisterous, though evidently very tired, and one declared as she sat down in the place next to me, "a hard day's work." One tall bony girl who stood in the forward door, which she kept open, talked in so masculine a voice that I was at first very doubtful whether it was also, or a man, or a person with a drum, who was speaking. As a rule, these fellow-passengers of ours looked weary, plain and unattractive, though several of them were very young, and just across the line from the place of their origin, with a perfect rose on white complexion, and an abundance of light hair, who was really pretty enough for a picture.

After several efforts, I succeeded in reaching the largest letters of the label on their backs, and informing them that the "young lady made Ball Club," and two of three inquiries from my next neighbor elicited further that they were from Philadelphia, had been on the road about a week, and were waiting for a new training before; that they were generally mill-girls and factory-hands, who preferred to earn a living by playing bass ball; that

KINGMAN.

A Pleasant Occasion.

Last Friday afternoon the last time that Mr. J. Gurnam F. Guild would serve as teacher of the Thaxter street Grammar school, his scholars took occasion to make it a pleasant occasion both to them and the master. The afternoon was devoted to singing, readings and recitations by members of the school. The following were the readings by Miss Agnes Gorman, Carrie Torrey, Lulu Dunes, Master Ernest Lincoln, Dennis Mahany, all of which were read in a satisfactory manner. Excellent selections of songs were rendered by Miss Lottie Stuart and Miss Carrie Bicknell. Just previous to the readings a collection was taken, and the sum of $1.40 was obtained. The name read by a note was laid upon the teacher's desk; it being a gift from the scholars to their retiring teacher.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Lincoln, widow of the late Charles Lincoln, Sen., took place from her late residence on Lincoln street, last Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. F. Lawford, pastor of the M. E. Church, officiated.

On and after Monday the 7.30 train from Cohasset, we learn will stop at the West Highland station.

Mr. A. M. Gerrold, a member of Reyholds Post 58, G. A. R., Weymouth, wishes us through these columns to extend his thanks to the above Post; also to Wm. E. Ford, George W. Cobb, Mrs. Fiske and others for the kindness shown him during his sickness for the past year.

Mr. Jotham Burrell, sexton of the New North Church, who has been quite sick at his residence on Water street they played against each other, the phonolans again, and the fact that they had just played a game in Lynn and were to play in Boston on Monday.

This bevy of warty sportswomen was driven forth from the carlike a flock of sheep by the rather unshapely young man who seemed to have them in charge, and to the different hotel, and to the place where they again sat yesterday forenoon, when a burst of music slightly out of tune, drew us to the window, to see a barge of rather unsavory appearance, in which were the base ball girls, clad in game costume, the Boston and Worcester teams, and the players in red, with vizzored caps on their heads, and abbreviated skirts, throwing out handbills to the populace.

The result was that about a thousand men, boys, and a score or more of their women, crowded into the hall, and the room, with much delight, and applause for the novelty, and good natured forbearance for the poor playing. Another game is to be played this afternoon. Somebody has promised considerable money out of this experience, and I am told that the first neighbor how much the players get it of. And is it an easier life than their old work-a-day one? Their large unglazed hands and thick wrists looked as if it was no child's play for them, poor and unscientific as they are.

The Arruaring case, which is said to involve larger interests than any other case which has been before the Supreme Court for a long time, draws its slow length along, the administrator plaintiff not having yet closed his case. The case, which is before the court room, is an interesting one, Judge William Allen, who is on the bench, is as we are pleased to learn is out. Clure.

The choir of the New North Church have resigned, and we learn that the society have adopted congregational singing.

Hon. John D. Long spoke at a republican meeting held in Salem, last Wednesday evening, and at Duxbury last night. He will speak in the following named places from Monday evening, October to Saturday evening, Nov. 3, at Worcester, East Bridgewater, Stoughton, Barnstable, Newburyport, South Abington, Braintree, Mansfield, Canton, Brockton, Quincy, Springfield, Taunton, Plymouth, Leominster, Holbrook, Weymouth and Middleboro.

Mr. E. F. Fisher, who has opened Laundry in East Weymouth, has appointed Mr. Joseph Brown agent for this town.

Mr Quincy Bicknell has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late Thomas Stoddard, by the Probate Court.

We learn that settlements are very scarce in our harbor this season.

We learn that the Old Colony Co. a gas company, has put an electric bell at each of the railroad crossings in this town.

Quite a number of persons attended the Catholic fair which was held in the church at Weymouth Landing, last Sunday, and also this present week.

A convention of the teachers of Plymouth County is to be held at Haver-handsome a man as can be found in New England, with his abundance of silver-white hair and beard, his delicate pink and white complexion, and his dignified bearing. Six of the most able lawyers in the state are engaged on the case, three on each side. The jury is made up of noticeably young men, there being scarcely gray head among them. The bar is filled daily by attorneys, more or less interested in the case, and the seats at the back are all filled, a great number of ladies being constantly present, either as witnesses, or as interested friends and acquaintances. It is not often that so large a number of lawyers and thousands of both sexes are regular attendants on a court trial. The defendant, Mr. Bloodgett, sits with his counsel inside the bar; he is a tall, lank man, with grizzled beard and hair, kindly but shrewd eyes beneath which are deep black lines, and an air of mingled anxiety and confidence.

I saw Prof. Kelley of the N. E. School of Elocution the other day, and he says that he is going to make a speciality this year of oratory for women, teaching them to deliver a written address, or an extemporaneous speech; to debate, and to argue a case. He has fine plans for this department, which he says is an absolutely new demand. Good! I'll attend the first public meeting of the debating society which he is to start as one part of his scheme, and write you about it. THIMONIA.

A YOUNG LADY

—o—

Yes, Sir, I'm Younger than any of my children. I'm a young lady, said Mrs. Robinson, of 601 William St., New Haven, Conn. We read about this kind of trouble, but seldom see it in Society.

"Yes, Sir, I'm younger than any of my children now. Keep up with the times, and I'll be a rapid and successful young lady, and don't grow old," were the words of Mrs. Robinson to your reporter, who called on her to see her. She is one of the earnest go-ahead sort of aged ladies who read the paper, and are not content to sit alone, when said, "I've had my share of trouble," and say, "for all my life I have been a sufferer from indigestion." From this has resulted indigestion and inaction of the digestive organs. I've been troubled with dyspepsia, and have been told that I must eat much, which I cannot do. If I need something artificial and strengthening. I attribute these troubles, which I have had for years, to the fact I've been under the physician's care a great deal during my life, but I never received any permanent benefit. I never began taking Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY, which has proved a perfect restorative in my case. My health is better now than it has been for a long time. I consider Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY an excellent medicine. It is used extensively in my family. I keep it as a family medicine, and rely upon it for cure of the good results it is giving me."

Your reporter left Mrs. Robinson rejoicing in health and renewed youth, and bestowing merited praise on the medicine. It is used extensively in thousands; viz. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. Your drug store is the place to get it. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has become a household word. Everybody sooner or later, gets sick, and sickness is a trouble and expense, and it is better to prevent it at this point. It is not expensive and it is better to have all diseases prevented than to have Stomachs, Kidney complaints, Constipation, and the aches and ills which make the domestic life a burden a cross to bear.

The Political Field.

The Butler party held a Senatorial convention at Randolph, and it was thought by many of our residents that

Z. L. Bicknell, Esq., of Weymouth, would receive the nomination, but it fell to Mr. Hodges, of Quincy.

The contest for the election of the opposing candidate will be a close one, as both gentlemen are popular through the district, but Weymouth will no doubt help

Col. Lovell as it did last year, and re-secure his re-election. Major Merrill, of the Lawrence, American, gives Col.

Lovell a good "hoist," as follows:

"Col. Ben. S. Lovell, of Weymouth, good soldier, good fellow, and Grand Army enthusiast, as he is, has been unanimously re-nominated for the state senate and a thousand tongues praise his distinction and "Served his right."

Saturday, the Butler ratification meeting will be held at the town hall. The Governor himself is to be present, also

E. F. Pillsbury, Esq. Band concert from 7 to 7.30 o'clock. Coaches will run from all over the town.

The Republicans of Weymouth relucted at Lovell's hall last evening and formed a Robinson and Ames Club.

The meeting was called to order by Mr.

Alphus Bates, he having been requested to do so, owing to the illness of Col.

B. S. Lovell. Mr. Bates was made the temporary chairman and Wm. T. Rice

Secretary. Messrs. David Dunbar, C.

Reid and F. D. Thayer were chosen to prepare a list of officers of the club, and the following nominations

were presented and adopted:

President, Alphus Bates.

Vice Presidents, F. D. Thayer, T. B.

Lord, Charles Hawes, I. D. Wildes, C.

S. Redmond, J. H. Stevens, J. H. Whelan, Daniel Hart, T. H. Humphrey, E.

E. Bates, W. H. Pratt, J. A. Cushing,

F. B. Pratt, W. F. Merchant.

Secretary, Henry L. Lovell.

Treasurer, George A. Cushing.

The hall will be open every evening previous to election day, and political documents can be obtained there.

Early in the evening a flag bearing the names of the Republican candidates was raised in front of the hall.

The Republicans of Ward 3 have a grand rally at Clapp's hall, when a flag will be raised and an exhibition of fireworks and the latter being generally contributed by Mr. E. S. Hunt. The speakers will be the eloquent colored orator of Ohio, Geo. W. Williams, and

Chas. A. Foster, Esq., of Quincy, and the occasion will be one of the most interesting of political gatherings. The public are invited to be present at this rally, which occurs Monday evening.

The friends of Gen. Butler in Ward 3 met at Amos Hall Tuesday evening

last, to form a campaign club, nearly 30

gentlemen being present. The meeting was called to order by F. LaForrest, and officers of the Butler Club were elected as follows:

President, F. LaForrest.

Vice Presidents, J. W. Hart, L. H.

Loud.

Secretary, Thomas McDonald.

Treasurer, George A. Cushing.

Corresponding Secy, Owen L. Greelish.

Executive Committee, R. W. Cushing,

H. S. Lord, Thos. Griffin, James

B. Ford, John P. Dwyer.

The meeting was adjourned to next

Friday evening at 7.30, at the club

headquarters, Williams' Hall.

The Robinson and Ames Club of

Ward 3 had a rally in Clapp's Hall

Tuesday evening, but owing to other events of local interest occurring the evening the attendance was not large. The speakers, A. E. Pillsbury,

Esq., of Boston, and Col. Hart of Chester, arrived about 8 o'clock, having been carried to Hingham, from whence they returned by carriage. They were introduced by the first vice pres-

Annual Meeting of the W. A. S. Society.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the stockholders of the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial Society, was held at Engine Hall, Ward 5, South

Weymouth, Tuesday evening the 16th.

After listening to the reports of the various officers, the meeting proceeded to the choice of officers with the following result.

President, Alvah Raymond.

Vice Presidents, Peter W. French, J.

M. Cushing, B. S. Foster.

Secretary, William Dyer.

Treasurer, Geo. W. Bates.

Supt. of hall, S. S. Spear.

Supt. of grounds, Leonard B. Tirrell.

Finance Committee, E. T. Joy, Joseph Dyer, Wm. A. Shaw.

Directors, John S. Rogk, J. R. Orcutt

Sam'l Cleverly, Henry Lord, J. M. Tot-

man, Brattin Nash, C. G. Westbrook,

J. Wilkins, R. L. Hunt, D. W. Barrows,

Geo. Hollis, James Moore, Edward

Rosenfeld, Elbridge Nash, Geo. A. Ordway, Q. L. Reed, Loring Tirrell, C. W.

Torrey, Bela T. Nash, Wm. Burrell, L.

A. Cook.

After discussing the interests of the society, the following votes were passed:

Voted, to hold a three days fair next fall, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at such time as the directors may specify.

Voted, that the society hold monthly meetings for discussion, during the coming year, to be held in different parts of the town, the meetings to be called by the directors.

Voted, to hold the next annual meeting at Engine Hall, South Weymouth,

the third Tuesday in Oct. 1884. A committee consisting of Messrs. Alvah Raymond, Peter W. French, J. M. Cutting,

B. F. Poole, Wm. Dyer, Ernest Nash,

was chosen to arrange for a fair.

Mr. Charles Hawes gave notice that at the next meeting of the stockholders,

he should move to change the by-laws making a quorum of the directors for transaction of business to consist of seven.

Catholic Fair.

An amateur minstrel company from East Weymouth, numbering ten persons, gave an entertainment at the fair

of the Catholic society at Weymouth

last Friday evening. Their performance was received with great favor, and did the performers much credit. The fair has been attended by large audiences, and closes Saturday evening.

Music.

The "Cecilians" (M. Anna Lovell,

Jennie B. Worster, Mary A. Bates,

Emma F. Lane), are expected to assist in the musical services at the Union church, (Rev. Mr. Fry's) next Sunday morning, by giving one or two of their selections as a quartette.

Evening with the Church.

At Union church, next Sunday even-

POSTAGE STAMPS.

How they first came to be used abroad.

The first government to use stamps for the prepayment of postage was Great Britain, and, although it was not 1840 that the stamps were first used in that country, they have now become common, as many a boy's stamp-album will show, in every nation on the globe. The original stamp of England was in the form of an envelope for the trans-the men to have a large quantity of stamps printed, and to be ready for publishing or cake pans (round one) and the letter to growse them and line them with this white paper (tea a penny); put the latter in the pans and bake in a moderately hot oven from 30 to 60 minutes. Great care should be taken not to move the cake during the process of baking; if browning too quickly on top, cover with thick brown paper.

The Army of the Revolution.

T. W. Higginson, the author of an article in the "Dawning of independence" in Harper's Magazine, says: All that was experienced on both sides at the beginning of the late American Civil war in respect to ravenous or ill-disciplined, inexperienced officers, short enlistments, local jealousies, was equally known in the early Continental Army, and was less easily remedied. Even the four New England colonies that supplied the first troops were distrustful of one another and of Washington, and this not without some apparent reason. In a state of society which, as has been shown, was essentially aristocratic, they had suddenly lost their leaders. Nearly one-third of the community, including almost all those to whom social deference had been paid, had taken what they called the loyal, and others the Tory, side. Why should this imported Virginian be more hard-tongued? Washington turned harshly due to the martial law which had to be justified. He found that in Massachusetts, unlike Virginia, the gentry were loyal to the king; those with whom he had to consult were mainly farmers and mechanics—a class such as hardly existed in Virginia, and which was then far rougher and less intelligent than the same class now is. They were obstinate, suspicious, jealous. They had lost their natural leaders, the rich men, the royal councillors, the judges, and had to take up with new and improvised guides—physicians like Warren ("Doc to General" Warren, as the British officers called him), or skilled mechanics like Paul Revere, or unemployed lawyers and business men like those whom Governor Shirley described as "that brace of Adamases." The few men of property and consequence who stood by them, as Hancock and Prescott, were the exceptions. Their lieutenants were men taken almost at random from among themselves. Some were turning out admirably, some times out quite badly. Washington cashiered a colonel and five captains for cowardice or dishonesty during the first summer. The Continental army as it first assembled in Cambridge was, as was said of another army on a later occasion, an aggregation of town meetings, and, which is worse, of town meetings from which all the ablest and most successful leaders had suddenly been swept away. No historian has yet fully portrayed the extent to which this social revolution in New England embarrassed all the early period of the war, or shown how it made the early Continental troops clatter under Washington and Schuyler, and prefer in their secret souls to be led by General Putnam, whom they could call "Old Put," and who rode to battle in his shirt sleeves.

A Fanny Eyesight.

Not long ago an Indian chief, who lives on one of the western reservations, sent to the government at Washington for a glass eye. The circumstance brings to mind an incident that occurred a few days after the last war in this country. At the battle of Stone River, or Murfreesboro, as some historians name it, Lieutenant Halleck, of the Union army, had the misfortune to lose one of his eyes. In 1865 he was produced a piece in New Solon which was found, but such is the case of the Kol. The United States were the only nation in which it is as common now as it is here. The man who brought the stamps into this country was the Hon. E. A. Mitchell, the postmaster at New Haven, Conn., who abided with his office in 1847. It did not differ in form and size much from the stamps now in use, but was of a brown color, and printed in black. Upon it was printed: "Paid, New Haven Post office; 5 cts. E. A. Mitchell, P. M." The merchants and business men of New Haven complained at the loss of time occasioned by their having to wait while they paid their postage, having to take their places in the line at the clerk's window, and also because they could only mail mot to be first lieutenant in the regular army, and was stationed at one of the Indian posts on the plains. He had a small blue eye of glass, but thinking he could not obtain artificial eyes so far away from the large cities, he brought two other glass eyes for use should his regular false eye be broken. On a certain occasion Lieutenant Haddock was visiting a officer, an Indian warrior, who wished to see the "white man's funny eye." The brave was much pleased with the sight, and said that while he besought the officer to lend him one of the extra trials of glass, "that your sound eye is as black as coal and as big as a saucer," protested the lieutenant, "and those glass eyes are little and blue." The Indian insisted, however, and at last prevailed on the lieutenant to lend him one of the eyes.

The lieutenant says that he never saw an Indian so delighted. Clad in a light shirt and an old plug hat, the brave walked around the camp as proud as Lucifer. His big black eye and his little blue eye were in amusing contrast. He succeeded in making the other Indians believe that he could see through the blue eye as well as through his natural black one, and so happier India warrior than he ever strutted before wearing squaws.

The Civil Rights Question.

The decision of the Supreme Court overruling the illegality of the enactment under which the colored people of this country were made coequal with whites in civil rights is destined to create a stirring political issue, and it remains for the future to show whether the Republican or Democratic parties will take this question for an issue in the coming Presidential campaign. The great underlying principle of the Declaration that every citizen be equal in life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness is an assertion which applies to every citizen of the republic, of whatever color, condition or race, and the glaring evidences of the colorphobia spirit which still remain in sections of the country should be thoroughly uprooted by enactments which no decision of a court can appeal can overcome. The Republican party is responsible for the enactment which gave the privilege of citizenship to the colored race, and to be consistent with its record in the past, it cannot abandon the proteges for whom such sacrifices of blood and treasure were made.

No school today was the happy watchword in the mouth of every Weymouth boy and girl on Tuesday of this week. The occasion was the holding of an Institute in the neighboring town of Holbrook. These institutes are being held under the auspices of the state board of education in various parts of the state where they will do the most good. We know there are those in our community who think that every such privilege granted to our teachers is so much waste; but it must be known that the majority of our teachers have had little or no professional training and the practical instruction of these institutes is just what they need from time to time to better their work and the best of our teachers need the same to prevent their falling into the ruts of old routine work, which comes so readily if left to themselves. At this institute were represented the towns of Holbrook, Randolph, Stoughton, Braintree, Quincy and Weymouth, and out of about one hundred and fifty reported at the morning session Weymouth was credited with fifty.

The exercises of the day were held in the vestry of Holbrook's new church, and consisted of very practical talks by successful teachers employed by the state board. Some of the exercises were of particular interest to the teachers but would not especially interest the public, such as Arithmetic by Mr. Walton of the state board, principles of teaching by Secy. Dickinson, and the results of Prof. Carter of the Normal Art school would have interested every parent who is interested for or against drawing in our public schools. And it is to be hoped that are long the ideas there advanced may be so far adopted that that branch may be of more practical utility than at present and that when our scholars come from our grammar schools they may be able to put on paper their impressions and ideas of any simple forms or objects, either as a working design or fair representation. Supt. Prince recently of Waltham, besides a valuable talk on teaching reading also gave a most excellent lecture on the teaching of morals in our schools, and the interest manifested by all present showed that our teachers are alive to the fact that after all the greatest of all training is the character. And this is a matter in which parents should more frequently co-operate with the teacher, and assist him or her in implanting habits of punctuality, duty of reverence and obedience to authority, truth telling, and purity of language. We believe the day will not be lost to Weymouth schools.

Surprise Visit. While Mechanics T. of H. No. 25, were holding their regular weekly meeting on Friday evening last, they were surprised by their wives and friends in a very happy manner. During the evening remarks were made for the visit of the order by several brothers. The ladies had previous to their visit arranged a programme of entertainments, which was under the charge of Mrs. H. B. Raymond. Miss Nellie Boordue rendered a piano solo; Miss Annie Denbroer sang; select readings by Messrs. Taylor and Campbell; piano duet by Messrs. Thomas and Boordue, all of which was listened to with great interest. After the entertainment an adjournment was made to the banquet hall, where a nice collation had been spread by the ladies, sixty persons being seated at the tables. At a seasonable hour the visitors departed, having enjoyed a pleasant evening's visit.

A Good Time Coming. The general business agent of the Original Spaulding's American Hand and Staff Bell Ringers, F. D. Straff, was in town to announce the sale of a valuable company. The Spauldings have with this season the celebrated Bloodgoods, the wonderful soprano vocalist, Miss Fannie Bloodgood. Wherever this company has appeared this season, the press and public have pronounced it above anything that Manager Spaulding has heretofore produced. They are sure of a full house here as in former years. Little Kittie Spaulding will appear at Clegg's Hall, Tuesday Oct. 30.

Mr. H. F. Bates tells us that the telegraphing of Gov. Butler's speech to the Boston Globe, was finished a few minutes after two o'clock Sunday morning.

Last Monday Deputy Sheriff Washington M. French of Quincy, was attacked with paralysis. Mr. French is well known through the county, especially in his long connection with the fire department of the town, in which he has always taken a great interest, and in his official capacity as Deputy Sheriff and chief-of-police.

Indicted. An indictment was found against John H. Smith, of Quincy, for an assault on Edward Howley, of East Weymouth, by the grand jury of Plymouth county, Wednesday. It will be remembered that Howley was one of the party that was returning home from the shore last summer and while passing through Old Colony House woods was set upon by highwaymen and a robbery attempted.

At the Town Hall last Saturday evening the Democrats and Independents rallied in large numbers for the purpose of raising their state ticket, and at 7:30 o'clock not one seat was available. The Weymouth Band was present and added to the liveliness of the occasion by their musical selections. At 7:30 o'clock the speakers and town committee appeared upon the platform and spoke as follows: "Mr. Chairman and fellow citizens of Weymouth, Gov. Butler is coming to Weymouth to night. He never disappoints his friends. But he sometimes disappoints his enemies. He will be elected Governor for the second term, and it is an even question if he is not going to march into Washington." (Tremendous applause). He was listened to with marked interest, concluding his address about 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. E. F. Pillsbury, the next speaker, in commencing his address said he was sent here to hold the fort till the Governor came, for it might be ten minutes and perhaps an hour before his arrival; but the Governor was sure to come and address them. Mr. Pillsbury continued his address for an hour, when Rev. Jacob Baker and Wm. G. A. Patten, the latter of Quincy, and member of the House of Representatives, made addresses and were warmly applauded. After this Mr. Pillsbury resumed his remarks until interrupted by the arrival of Gov. Butler. When the General mounted the platform it seemed as if bedlam was let loose, and the town hall trembled under the storm of applause. His first words were, "If anything would make a dead man speak it is this outbreak of enthusiasm. I thought his address would take too much of our space, but what I said was akin to his remarks in other places. He concluded his speech about midnight when the audience retired. It is estimated that fully 1500 people were present, including ladies.

The Robinson and Ames Club of Weymouth had a rally last Monday evening with fireworks and a flag raising. Lincoln Square was filled with people early in the evening, who were treated to a fine display of pyrotechnics contributed by the manufacturer, Mr. E. S. Hunt, the show embracing shells of various kinds, rockets, bengals, and colored lights. After the flag had been run out from the hall, the crowd poured into the building, a good number of ladies being present, and the President of the Club, Mr. A. E. Newhall, introduced the speakers of the evening, Messrs. Foster, Esq. of Quincy, and Geo. W. Williams, Esq. of Ohio, who occupied about two hours in the presentation of their views of the present political campaign, in which they defined the issue to be simply Butler—shall he go or shall he stay. The speakers held the close attention of the audience, and their remarks were received with frequent applause.

The Strike. We are informed that a part of the lathers in M. Sheehy & Co's factory are on a strike, the circumstances being stated by Mr. Sheehy to be as follows: Mr. S. was called upon by a committee of the Lathers' Union on Tuesday week and presented with a paper to sign, which he refused to receive, saying that he knew nothing of the Union nor did he want to. The committee laid the paper on the bench, and they refusing to take it up Mr. Sheehy threw it into the stove in their presence, when they left saying they would call at 4 p.m., when they returned and asked what decision he had arrived at, and in reply he told them that he had nothing to say to them, and that when he hired the Union he would make prices with it. They replied that all that remained for them to do was to call out the lathers, when Mr. S. told them to go right out, and if any of his men wanted to go they could. The committee then left, saying that if Mr. Sheehy wanted them hereafter he would have to come to them, and he replied that if he wanted to, then he would not call out the lathers, but he would come to his factory to create a disturbance between him and his hands.

Mr. Sheehy says further, that the two lathers who left his shop told the foreman, Mr. McGrath, the previous Saturday, that the Union would not strike against his shop, as the men were satisfied with the prices, which were as good as all things considered, as any now paid in town, and would rather have it than any other. These two lathers also stated (Mr. Sheehy says) that it was the intention to notify all the shops of an advance for the next season, and that it would be done when the manufacturers were getting out the samples; that it would not be either just or many to ask for an advance in the middle or last part of the trade, and that no man of principle would do it, nor would the Union tolerate such unfair dealing. They both repeated this even in strong language, to Mr. Sheehy late in the same day, and saying that they told a committee of the Union who visited them previously that the prices were satisfactory in this shop; but notwithstanding these expressions the two quit work at 4 p.m. Tuesday, without a word of explanation to Mr. Sheehy or his foreman, nor does Mr. Sheehy know what they quit for, though it has been advertised in the Boston Herald that the lathers are out on a strike in Mr. Sheehy's shop and requesting men to keep away.

Mr. Sheehy says to us that he shall never recognize any guardianship on the part of outsiders, over his help, and that he shall never, under any consideration, permit those two lathers to return to his shop. He has no ill feeling towards the Union, but on the contrary thinks that men are benefited by association. The trouble, he says, is that when some reckless seeker of turmoil seeks to run the association the decent men get disgusted and soon withdraw.

The 45th Indignation Meeting. The recent allusion by Gov. Butler to the "Boston Globe" has stirred the command of Col. Codman, has resulted in a meeting of surviving comrades of the command who met at Swampscott Saturday evening last to defend the honor of the old 45th. The president of the meeting was Mr. Geo. C. Richards, of Co. E, who belongs in Weymouth, and has resided at Swampscott for many years.

The trouble, he says, is that when some reckless seeker of turmoil seeks to run the association the decent men get disgusted and soon withdraw.

The 45th Indignation Meeting. The recent allusion by Gov. Butler to the "Boston Globe" has stirred the command of Col. Codman, has resulted in a meeting of surviving comrades of the command who met at Swampscott Saturday evening last to defend the honor of the old 45th. The president of the meeting was Mr. Geo. C. Richards, of Co. E, who belongs in Weymouth, and has resided at Swampscott for many years.

At the Town Hall last Saturday evening the Democrats and Independents rallied in large numbers for the purpose of raising their state ticket, and at 7:30 o'clock not one seat was available. The Weymouth Band was present and added to the liveliness of the occasion by their musical selections. At 7:30 o'clock the speakers and town committee appeared upon the platform and spoke as follows: "Mr. Chairman and fellow citizens of Weymouth, Gov. Butler is coming to Weymouth to night. He never disappoints his friends. But he sometimes disappoints his enemies. He will be elected Governor for the second term, and it is an even question if he is not going to march into Washington." (Tremendous applause). He was listened to with marked interest, concluding his address about 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. E. F. Pillsbury, the next speaker, in commencing his address said he was sent here to hold the fort till the Governor came, for it might be ten minutes and perhaps an hour before his arrival; but the Governor was sure to come and address them. Mr. Pillsbury continued his address for an hour, when Rev. Jacob Baker and Wm. G. A. Patten, the latter of Quincy, and member of the House of Representatives, made addresses and were warmly applauded. After this Mr. Pillsbury resumed his remarks until interrupted by the arrival of Gov. Butler. When the General mounted the platform it seemed as if bedlam was let loose, and the town hall trembled under the storm of applause. His first words were, "If anything would make a dead man speak it is this outbreak of enthusiasm. I thought his address would take too much of our space, but what I said was akin to his remarks in other places. He concluded his speech about midnight when the audience retired. It is estimated that fully 1500 people were present, including ladies.

The Robinson and Ames Club of Weymouth had a rally last Monday evening with fireworks and a flag raising. Lincoln Square was filled with people early in the evening, who were treated to a fine display of pyrotechnics contributed by the manufacturer, Mr. E. S. Hunt, the show embracing shells of various kinds, rockets, bengals, and colored lights. After the flag had been run out from the hall, the crowd poured into the building, a good number of ladies being present, and the President of the Club, Mr. A. E. Newhall, introduced the speakers of the evening, Messrs. Foster, Esq. of Quincy, and Geo. W. Williams, Esq. of Ohio, who occupied about two hours in the presentation of their views of the present political campaign, in which they defined the issue to be simply Butler—shall he go or shall he stay. The speakers held the close attention of the audience, and their remarks were received with frequent applause.

The Strike. We are informed that a part of the lathers in M. Sheehy & Co's factory are on a strike, the circumstances being stated by Mr. Sheehy to be as follows: Mr. S. was called upon by a committee of the Lathers' Union on Tuesday week and presented with a paper to sign, which he refused to receive, saying that he knew nothing of the Union nor did he want to. The committee laid the paper on the bench, and they refusing to take it up Mr. Sheehy threw it into the stove in their presence, when they left saying they would call at 4 p.m., when they returned and asked what decision he had arrived at, and in reply he told them that he had nothing to say to them, and that when he hired the Union he would make prices with it. They replied that all that remained for them to do was to call out the lathers, when Mr. S. told them to go right out, and if any of his men wanted to go they could. The committee then left, saying that if Mr. Sheehy wanted them hereafter he would have to come to them, and he replied that if he wanted to, then he would not call out the lathers, but he would come to his factory to create a disturbance between him and his hands.

Mr. Sheehy says further, that the two lathers who left his shop told the foreman, Mr. McGrath, the previous Saturday, that the Union would not strike against his shop, as the men were satisfied with the prices, which were as good as all things considered, as any now paid in town, and would rather have it than any other. These two lathers also stated (Mr. Sheehy says) that it was the intention to notify all the shops of an advance for the next season, and that it would be done when the manufacturers were getting out the samples; that it would not be either just or many to ask for an advance in the middle or last part of the trade, and that no man of principle would do it, nor would the Union tolerate such unfair dealing. They both repeated this even in strong language, to Mr. Sheehy late in the same day, and saying that they told a committee of the Union who visited them previously that the prices were satisfactory in this shop; but notwithstanding these expressions the two quit work at 4 p.m. Tuesday, without a word of explanation to Mr. Sheehy or his foreman, nor does Mr. Sheehy know what they quit for, though it has been advertised in the Boston Herald that the lathers are out on a strike in Mr. Sheehy's shop and requesting men to keep away.

Mr. Sheehy says to us that he shall never recognize any guardianship on the part of outsiders, over his help, and that he shall never, under any consideration, permit those two lathers to return to his shop. He has no ill feeling towards the Union, but on the contrary thinks that men are benefited by association. The trouble, he says, is that when some reckless seeker of turmoil seeks to run the association the decent men get disgusted and soon withdraw.
